This week at School

We are now well into the Christmas countdown 🎄, and the excitement is building across school! We're looking forward to welcoming you to join us for the many festive activities planned over the coming weeks—it will be such a special time of year when our school community comes together.

Our fantastic Year 2 children showed incredible resilience and enthusiasm during their Geography field trip this week. Despite the rain, they embraced the challenge with smiles and determination, proving that a little drizzle can't dampen their spirit for learning and adventure! We are so proud of the way they represented our school. A heartfelt thank you also goes to the parents who joined us on the trip—your support makes experiences like this possible, and we truly couldn't do it without you.

What a brilliant day we had celebrating Wear Pyjamas Day! The children loved coming to school in their cosy outfits, and we were overwhelmed by the kindness and generosity of our families. Your donations and support mean so much, and we are deeply grateful.

As we head towards the end of term, I want to take this opportunity to thank you once again for everything you do to support Cathcart Street Primary. We are incredibly proud of our children and of the strong, positive relationships we share with our families. While this is a busy and exciting time of year, we continue to expect and uphold our high standards of behaviour, ensuring that every child feels supported and able to thrive. Together, we are making this Christmas season one to remember.

Many thanks for your continued support

Y3 - have been researching facts about foxes to write an Information Report.

Y4 - have been working super hard on their addition and exchanging of numbers in maths
